Permissions

As a general rule, permission should be sought from the rights holder to reproduce any substantial part of a copyrighted work. This includes any text, illustrations, charts, tables, photographs, or other material from previously published sources. Obtaining permission to re-use content published by Elsevier is simple. Follow the guide below for a quick and easy route to permission.

Can I use material from my Elsevier journal article within my thesis/dissertation?

As an Elsevier journal author, you have the right to include the article in a thesis or dissertation (provided that this is not to be published commercially) whether in full or in part, subject to proper acknowledgment; see the Copyright page (https://www.elsevier.com/about/policies/copyright) for more information. No written permission from Elsevier is necessary.

This right extends to the posting of your thesis to your university’s repository provided that if you include the published journal article, it is embedded in your thesis and not separately downloadable.

Obtaining permission to use content on ScienceDirect

If the content you wish to re-use is on ScienceDirect, you may request permission using the Copyright Clearance Center's Rightslink® service. Simply follow the steps below:

1. Locate your desired content on ScienceDirect. Subscribers will be able to view all content and guest users can view open access content and abstracts for free simply by clicking on the article or chapter title.

2. Determine if the content is open access or subscription access. If you are reading an Elsevier published article online, you need to look out for the "Open Access" orange label located under the article's title and author information. You will also be able to identify any... relevant open access articles in your search results by looking for the same label. To find out how you can reuse an open access article, look underneath the title and click on the license hyperlink for exact details on the user license selected by the author. If your reuse is not covered by the user license, please proceed to the next step.

3. Click on the 'Get rights and content' button located under the author details, adjacent to the DOI.

4. The following page will then be launched (turn off your pop-up blocker):

6. Create an account if you have not done so already.

7. Accept the terms and conditions.

For further information about Rightslink® please click here here.

For questions about using the Rightslink service, please contact Customer Support via phone 877/622-5543 (toll free) or 978/777-9929, or email customercare@copyright.com.
Please note: When you create an account with Rightslink you will be asked to provide either your credit card information or an invoicing address. This does not necessarily mean that your request will be subject to a permissions fee; it is part of the registration process only. You can determine whether your request is subject to a fee by clicking on the "quick price" button after you have made your selection on how you wish to use the material.

Obtaining permission to use content on ClinicalKey (Book Search)

If the content you wish to re-use is available on Clinicalkey, you may request permission using the Copyright Clearance Center's Rightslink® service. Simply follow the steps below.

1. Locate your desired content on ClinicalKey. Click on the Books tab which is beneath the Search and Browse options and this will take you to a new window in which you need to enable all content by moving the toggle from Subscribed Content.

2. Enter the book name in the box that reads ‘Filter List by Title’.

3. Click on the title displayed to view the Table of Contents (TOC). Please select the required chapter from the TOC and click on “Get rights and content”.
